Due Feb 16

Norms are a fundamental concept in the social sciences. They are most commonly defined as rules or expectations that are socially enforced. Norms may be prescriptive (encouraging positive behavior; for example, "be honest") or proscriptive (discouraging negative behavior; for example, "do not cheat")."

Assignment #1

Directions: You will spend 15+ minutes observing people in public/online/movie/etc. You are an outsider peering in, not participating.]

1. What is the time and date? _____
2. How long did you observe? _____
3. Where did you observe? (be specific) _____
4. What are 5-10 norms SPECIFIC TO THE SITUATION YOU OBSERVED that you witnessed?

Instructions (optional)

"Norms are a fundamental concept in the social sciences. They are most commonly defined as rules or expectations that are socially enforced. Norms may be prescriptive (encouraging positive behavior; for example, "be honest") or proscriptive (discouraging negative behavior; for example, "do not cheat")."

5. Choose 3 of these norms and explain why they are useful. In other words, why has society made them rules (written or unwritten) for behavior?

6. Upon reflection, do any of these norms surprise you? Why or why not?

Day 4 – Sociology

"Norms are a fundamental concept in the social sciences. They are most commonly defined as rules or expectations that are socially enforced. Norms may be prescriptive (encouraging positive behavior; for example, "be honest") or proscriptive (discouraging negative behavior; for example, "do not cheat")."

Directions: Break a MINOR norm. You must do so in public, and the act must be premeditated.

FURTHERMORE: you must NOT break the law, go against your/others' personal morals, harm or destruct yourself/others/property, or get anyone in trouble (you, me, a stranger, etc).

1. When did you break the norm (time & date)?

2. How long did you spend doing so?

3. Where were you? (Be specific)

4. What did you do? Explain in detail.
