by
Lori & Debbie
In Memory of Brad Fairley
In a school where I did it well,
I met friends I loved so well.
These friends meant everything to me.
And now it is time to set them free.
I laid in my bed
and not a word to my sister was said.
My grandparents came home late that night and searched my house from left to right.
They stormed through a door
and found me lying on the floor.
But now I will see how my people will be.
I see how everyone is suffering over me
Now I am in peace for 'ETERNITY'.

Special thanks to our audiences for their great support for this production!!!

Memories:

"The fun and work that started in the summer with a two week workshop!
"Loading the semi for Bemidji in a snowstorm (the only blast we got in this year of El Niño!) and then having to cancel the move and set-up the next day because the roads were so icy!
"The Maid-Rite sign that was that isn't!
"The thrill of a peak performance to a responsive, sold-out crowd at Paul Bunyan Playhouse!
"Wondering what Calvin would surprise us during each performance!
"The great pizza party at Domino's Pizza!
"The burglar alarm going off at Frostbite Falls and having to pay for it!
"Meeting new theater people like Greg Gasman, John Justad, Don Espe, Nick Kapinkin, Kathy Conrady!
"Having the old gym to ourselves so we could work with no interruptions!
"The freezing cold gym for the first 3 weeks of rehearsals!!!

The Oliver production this year was a great success! Congratulations to the cast, crews, and directors for an outstanding job!!! Some of the unique and challenging aspects of this production were:

- ... community involvement in the the cast and crews
- ... elementary participation in the cast and crews
- ... theater professional Greg Gasman being the director and an actor
- ... John Justad taking on the production designer role and assisting with the technical aspects of the production
- ... college theater students helping with the production
- ... taking the show on the road and performing at the Paul Bunyan Playhouse to two full houses
- ... inviting schools throughout the region to see the performance
- ... financial support from Region 2 Arts Council to "do it up big!"
