Bulletin column 3 November 2019

“From the Pastor”

Dear parishioners,

We have something of a split weekend this weekend. Those attending the Saturday evening Masses will acknowledge All Souls' Day, our day of special prayer and remembrance for those who have gone before us marked with the sign of faith. When someone who was baptized dies, we as Catholics pray for the repose of their souls. If someone was a sinner in their lives, we as Christians of course ought never to presume that they went to hell, and much less should we ever think or say, “I hope he or she rots in hell,” if we want to have any prayer whatsoever of avoiding hell ourselves. Loving our neighbor as we love ourselves, which Jesus teaches us is part of the hallmark of the Christian life along with loving God, doesn't mean we have to like, be friends with, or agree with everyone else, but we must want them to go to heaven, without exception. If someone was a very serious sinner, perhaps the knowledge and freedom/consent necessary to commit mortal sins was lacking, or perhaps they made some sort of full repentance before dying. We hope for the best and look upon them with the merciful attitude with which we would want God to look upon us.

Meanwhile, we do not presume that any baptized Catholic who dies is in heaven. We might believe that if he or she was a person of tremendous sanctity, had a difficult final illness, or received the last sacraments of the Church, but we don't take it for granted. We live in an age in which most of us have lost the sense of sin. All sin offends God and serves to damage our character, leaving, even after the removal of the eternal consequences of our sins in the sacramental confession, harmful effects which we often think of as “temporal consequences of sin.” We may have to suffer those consequences in this life; for example, with difficulty in overcoming bad habits or in unfortunate things we have to suffer as a direct result of our bad actions. What is not completely perfected or purified in us in this life will need to be purged after our death for us to enter the heavenly presence of God. This process is not fun. It is a time of genuine suffering. However, it is a tremendously hopeful time, because all of those in purgatory have an absolute certainty of eventually entering heaven.

We as Catholics presume that virtually all baptized Catholics who die are currently in purgatory. We then act that way by praying for them. Our prayers can serve to shorten this time of purification for them as the grace of our loving intercession is applied to them. I have long theorized that this is because of the Church's tradition that when we pray for the poor souls in purgatory, they pray in return for us and it serves to advance their sanctification to enter into heaven, since they cannot pray or make reparation directly for themselves. If the person for whom we pray happens already to be in heaven, our prayers for their repose will help someone else in purgatory in need of the prayers.

Praying for the dead is one of the spiritual works of mercy. It is an essential part of our Catholic faith. In remembering the faithful departed, we recall that we are in still in communion with them and feel the bonds of love that unite us in the Holy Spirit.

If someone who has passed away has hurt us in some way, praying for their purification and repose helps us to heal of our personal wounds and come to forgive them. We become all the more like our loving God and Father who forgives our sins through the Blood of His own Son. Even as we pray for those who have gone before us, may the Lord make us more like Him in exercising love and mercy.

Those who attend Mass on Sunday will instead hear the Gospel of Jesus' encounter with Zacchaeus the tax collector. Zacchaeus has become rich by extorting his neighbors as he collects taxes for the Roman Empire. He is rightfully despised by his neighbors for his greed and derided for his shortness. He has all the wealth a person could want, but is completely alone in the world. God touches his heart with a desire to see Jesus, and he climbs a sycamore in order to do so since his diminutive height doesn't permit him to see over the crowd. To everyone's surprise, Jesus calls out to him and invites Himself to eat at his home. Jesus knows he is in the tree, knows who he is, knows his entire life story, and knows that Zacchaeus needs and is open to God's love. The tax collector receives Jesus into his home with joy. Jesus' love touches his heart to make a radical change in his life, given half of his money to the poor and repaying those he has defrauded fourfold. He probably didn't have much in terms of material possessions after doing those two things. But he is no longer alone. He has friendship with God, and perhaps some of his neighbors came to befriend him in seeing the change in him. If he remains on the good road to which Christ has called him and retains the salvation that came to his house that day, he will enjoy the presence of God and others who love God in heaven forever.

Zacchaeus's story has a great deal to teach us. First of all, we see that Jesus knows every one of us completely, to the core, and loves us in spite of our sins. In fact, the more that we are sinners – for Zacchaeus was a horrendous sinner – the more He reaches out to us in love. Jesus invites us to say yes to His loving call, and to be inspired by His love as Zacchaeus was to make changes in our lives that put us at peace with God and allow us to live with hope and joy. Jesus also invites us to see our brothers and sisters who may appear to be hopeless causes as His potential disciples. May we always allow Jesus' love to touch our hearts, to encourage us by His invitation to friendship and joy, to inspire us to trust God enough to place our lives in His hands, and to be merciful to those around us in imitation of His generous unconditional love.

We see in front of the Holy Family altar our list of those who died from our parish over the past year, and our book of the dead in which people may list their various loved ones who have passed away over the years. We will be praying for both groups of people throughout the year. If you do not see the name of your loved one who was a parishioner who passed away in the past year on our list of the deceased, please contact the office, and we will rectify the problem. May all of our departed loved ones joyfully enter the presence of God to rejoice in His love and goodness forever.

-Fr. Anthony Weidner

Heelan Fall Musical is Nov. 7-10
Bishop Heelan High School will present the fall musical "The Drowsy Chaperone," a hilarious parody of musical comedies, Thursday-Saturday, Nov. 7-9 at 7 p.m. and Sunday, Nov. 10 at 2 p.m. in the Heelan auditorium. Tickets are $5 for students and $7 for adults.

Performers are: Christopher Krogh as Man in Chair, Eric Lohr as Robert, Asia Keane as Janet, Truman Osborn as George, Sarah Beumler as Mrs. Tottendale and Foster Johnson as the Drowsy Chaperone from the 1920s. A host of other singing characters appear. Purchase tickets at the door.

Choral Composer Comes to Holy Cross Blessed Sacrament

The Missouri River Choral Society will showcase a guest composer at its upcoming concert "The Music of Richard Burchard: A Composer's Concert" on Sunday, Nov. 17 at 7 p.m. at Blessed Sacrament Church. Burchard is composing fulltime after a distinguished teaching career at Bellarmine University in Louisville, Ky. A resident of Pennsylvania, he will spend the week rehearsing with the Choral Society and will personally introduce his music to the audience. The Missouri River Choral Society is in their second year under the direction of Dr. John Flanery. Tickets of $10 for adults and $5 for students are available through Flanery (575-636-0192), a choral singer or at the door.

Prayer to St. Michael the Archangel

St. Michael the Archangel, defend us in battle. Be our protection against the wickedness and snares of the Devil. May God rebuke him, we humbly pray, and do thou, O Prince of the heavenly hosts, by the power of God, thrust into hell Satan, and all the evil spirits, who prowl about the world seeking the ruin of souls.
