“RCSS STAR Employees” for November 2019

Coleridge Elementary School - Darlene Bartell

Darlene Bartell, dedicated bus driver and custodian, always is seen smiling and has positive relationships with all students and staff. Ms. Bartell loves her bus riders and takes great pride in making sure they get to and from school safely every day. She also works diligently to keep the building and grounds of Coleridge shining. Darlene Bartell is greatly appreciated for all she does at Coleridge Elementary School, and we are proud to recognize her as our STAR Employee for November.

Eastern Randolph High School - Ashley Evans

Ashley Evans truly exemplifies the characteristics of a STAR Employee. She works diligently to ensure the academic success of all students, not just in her classroom, but across the school. Ms. Evans is a true teacher-leader in the math department and an integral part of our “Making Schools Work” leadership team. As a leader on this team, she has been instrumental in spearheading an initiative that promotes a growth mindset culture at the school. Each day, Ms. Evans can be seen tutoring at breakfast or after school, helping others during her planning, or supporting the school at extra-curricular events. She does all this with a smile, while concurrently completing an advanced degree in Educational Leadership. Eastern Randolph High School is proud to recognize Ashley Evans as our STAR Employee for November.

Farmer Elementary School - Tricia Deaton

Data Manager Tricia Deaton is a true professional, is a pleasure to work with, and wears many hats at Farmer Elementary School. She is a receptionist, administrator, nurse, guidance counselor, mediator, mother, grandmother, friend, and a wonderful person to be around. Each day, Ms. Deaton works hard by multitasking. Even if she has one hundred tasks to complete, and one hundred more on her mind, she will still make time to help out teachers and students as needed. We are lucky to have Tricia Deaton in our Farmer Elementary School family and are proud to select her as our STAR Employee for November.

Seagrove Elementary School - Rebecca Parks

Rebecca Parks serves as Seagrove Elementary School’s reading specialist and chairs the school’s Multi-Tiered System of Supports Committee. She does a phenomenal job working with classroom teachers to ensure students are served most appropriately for reading, and she also helps with classroom strategies and interventions. While our lead teacher was on maternity leave, Mrs. Parks served as the testing coordinator and did an excellent job. Seagrove Elementary School is proud to call Rebecca Parks our STAR Employee for November.

Southeastern Randolph Middle School - Crystal Richardson

Crystal Richardson helps out in many areas and can be counted upon to lead others in the right direction. "Always" is the best word to describe her. She always is a positive role model to staff, students, and parents. She always is at work, always is reliable, always is available to help, and always is there for others. Ms. Richardson has an important job as school treasurer, but what sets her apart is the way she goes above and beyond to help the school, and most importantly, our students. Ms. Richardson also serves as our cheerleader coach and her peppiness makes her perfect for the role. The best part of working with Mrs. Richardson is knowing that, at the end of a difficult day, she will make you feel better and leave you with a smile. We are proud to have Crystal Richardson represent Southeastern Randolph Middle School as our STAR Employee for November.

Southmont Elementary School - Ivy Bean

Fourth grade teacher Ivy Bean shows leadership in her classroom and throughout Southmont Elementary School. As a member of the school improvement team, she actively participates in decision-making. Recently, Ms. Bean took the initiative to lead a committee in developing a school-wide ENCORE master schedule. Her willingness to take a risk and try something new is an asset to our school. Students have benefited from Ms. Bean's leadership in an after-school soccer program as well as her growth mindset approach in the classroom. Adopting the "not yet" philosophy, Ms. Bean challenges both adults and students to learn each and every day. Southmont Elementary School is honored to recognize Ms. Ivy Bean as our STAR Employee for November.

Southwestern Randolph High School - Charles Peters

Charles Peters is a very dedicated teacher. His students respect him and respond to him, because they feel the same respect. Mr. Peters has spent countless hours at Southwestern Randolph High School producing magnificent plays and helping the band to become even better. He always is willing to help co-workers and students with whatever they need. Mr. Peters continues to provide an extraordinary experience for each student who passes through his doors. He has a great demeanor, and he gives the students what they need for them to be successful. Charles Peters puts in a lot of work and deserves to be recognized as Southwestern Randolph High School's STAR Employee for November.

Southwestern Randolph Middle School - Angela Frye

Career and Technical Education teacher Angela Frye is the definition of a dedicated teacher, as she always is prepared to deliver high-quality instruction to three different grade levels every school day. Ms. Frye's classroom is warm and inviting and students have found coding to be one of the highlights of their school day. In addition to her responsibilities as a classroom teacher, Ms. Frye advises a robotics and STEM club at our school and represents elective teachers as the school improvement team representative for their department. We are fortunate to have Angela Frye as a teacher at Southwestern Randolph Middle School and we proudly recognize her as our STAR Employee for November.

Tabernacle Elementary School - Ruby Bridges

Ruby Bridges is an instructional assistant at Tabernacle Elementary School in the kindergarten classrooms. Not only is she helpful with the kindergarten classes, but is willing to assist wherever needed throughout the school day. After completing her tasks each day, Ms. Bridges helps others with a variety of other tasks. Her passion for working with students is demonstrated daily through patience and love for them. The kindergarten students always look forward to Ms. Bridges working with them in groups or individually. We are proud to name Ruby Bridges as Tabernacle Elementary School's STAR Employee for November.

Uwharrie Ridge Six-Twelve - Rachel Cashatt

Science teacher Rachel Cashatt is endless positivity - she always has a smile on her face. She goes above and beyond to meet students where they are, and works tirelessly to plan creative, engaging, student-centered lessons. In addition, Mrs. Cashatt collaborates with specialists as needed in order to reach all students. Her efforts are not limited to students, however. Mrs. Cashatt is a team player, and even though she teaches science this year, she has volunteered to co-teach math during her planning, as well as stay after school to help her math colleagues. Furthermore, she is a technology guru and her expertise has helped our school develop a system for tracking attendance as well as active participation during enrichment and remediation. For these reasons and many more, Rachel Cashatt is Uwharrie Ridge Six-Twelve's STAR Employee for November.
