

Chapter 5 Review

Terms

soddy

Battle of Wounded Knee

Oliver Hudson Kelley

William Jennings Bryan

assimilation

Homestead Act

vaquero

Dawes Act

bimetallism

George A. Custer

Great Plains

Chisholm Trail

exoduster

Morrill Act

Who were the exodusters?

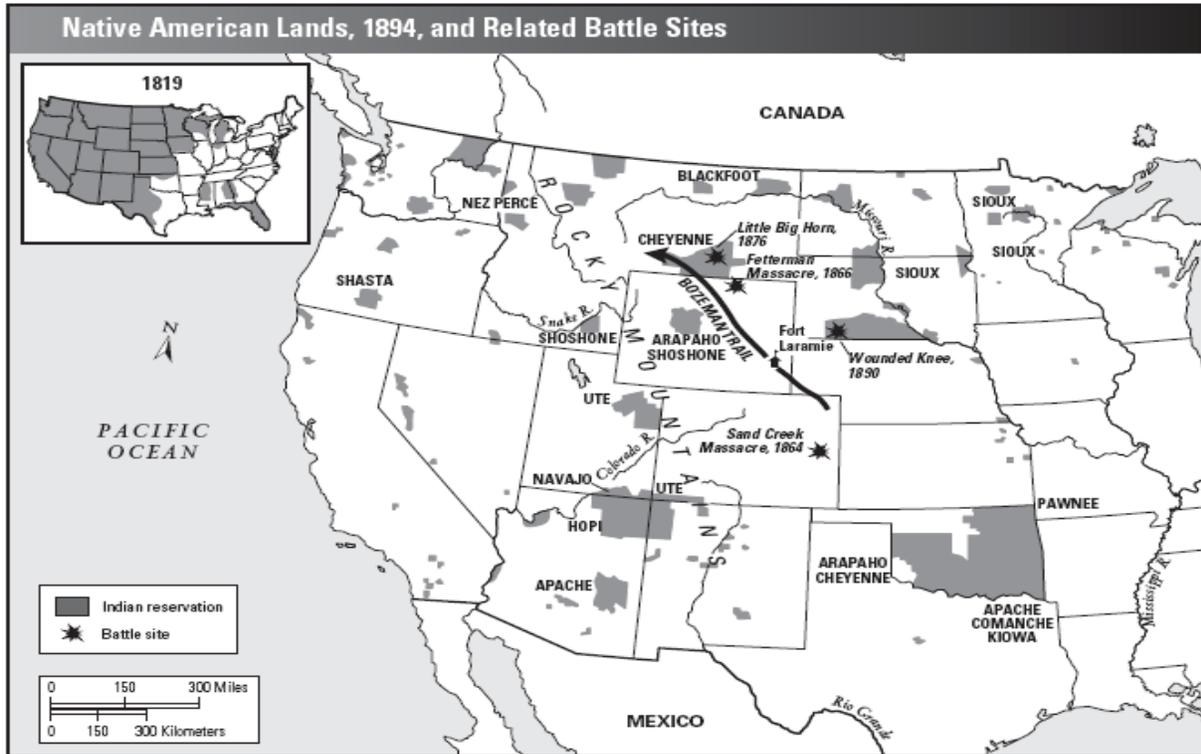

Why did the policy of treating the Great Plains as a huge reservation change?

Which of the following marked the end of the wars between the federal government and the Plains Indians?

Why did Plains farmers in the late 1800s tend to support bimetallism?

Which of the following did not intensify the debts that Plains farmers had during the late 1800s?

Which of the following marked the collapse of Populism?

The Dawes Act was designed to benefit?

The Grange did all of the following except?

William McKinley won the election of 1896 because

Bimetallism would allow for the exchange of paper currency for

Homesteader

Morrill Act

bonanza farm

The U.S. army under General Philip Sheridan crushed resistance against what Indians on the southern plains?

What Sioux leader refused to sign the Fort Laramie Treaty?

Crazy Horse ambushed and killed Fetterman and his company, over 80 soldiers were killed, known as the?

What cavalry regiment did Colonel Custer command?

Crazy Horse ambushed and killed Fetterman and his company, over 80 soldiers were killed, known as the?

Tribes such as the Sioux and Cheyenne gathered wild foods and hunted?

Texas rangers learned how to handle the _____ from Mexican rangers.

What did the U.S. do to help a single wild herd of buffalo?

Who started the Patrons of Husbandry, an organization for framers that became known as the Grange?

Explain what a long drive was and what the conditions were like?

Where did miners look for gold? _____, where the Sioux, Cheyenne, and Arapaho protested this to no avail.

Who was taking advantage over farmers, and how?

_____ was born, which was the movement of the people, that founded the People's Party, in 1892. These people demanded reforms to lift the burden of debt from farmers and other workers and to give the people a greater voice in their government.