

Randy Toms was raised in Warner Robins. He is a 1979 graduate of Northside High School. He played football and baseball while at Northside. Randy served in the United States Air Force and the Warner Robins Fire Department where he retired as a Lieutenant after 27 years of service. He is an ordained minister and served as Chaplain of the Georgia Association of Fire Chiefs for 15 years. Randy was the Color Commentator for the NHS Eagles along with his dear friend Mike Davis for 18 years. Randy earned a Degree from Georgia Military College in Warner Robins. Randy is the author of a book entitled “Just a Fireman”. The book is Randy’s way of sharing the life lessons he has learned and encouraging others to “do something bigger than yourself”. Randy met Jane Campbell at Tabor Jr. High in the 9th grade and developed a vision shortly after for her to become his wife. Jane did not agree with that vision. However; in 1982 Randy achieved what many believed was impossible. He married his wife of now nearly 38 years, Jane Toms. Randy and Jane have two children, Gabe and his wife Sarah and Callie and her husband Justin. They love their children but they also have six grandchildren: Peyton, Elliott, Blaine, Porter, Campbell and Evie Jo who slightly overshadows them. Randy was sworn in as mayor of the “International City” in 2014 and again in 2018.

What does Northside High School mean to you?

My time at Northside was challenging but extremely rewarding. Northside means an opportunity to develop lifelong friendships with teachers and fellow students alike. It means the blessing of looking back at the many people who helped form me into the individual I am today. Most of all Northside means understanding the phrase, “It’s great to be a Northside Eagle!” Much of what God has blessed me with in my life started at Northside. Once an Eagle always an Eagle.
