

4TH GRADE ART LESSON WEEK 5

This week is all about the work of Andy Goldsworthy. As you know, art can be created using nearly any medium; artists use paint, clay, charcoal, and ink to create their works. Artists like Andy Goldsworthy, though, use materials that are a little more unexpected. Andy Goldsworthy is a renowned British artist who works with found natural elements, and his work has been inspiring children and adults alike all around the world! He likes to work with materials he finds in nature. He has to photograph each piece because it is only temporary. This week I am asking all the students at BES to get outside (weather permitting) and create a temporary piece of art inspired by Andy Goldsworthy. This is the perfect time to make an art piece with all of the beautiful wild flowers and green leaves popping up all around us.

Please document your work and then get an adult to email me a picture or share one with your homeroom teacher. My email is: Leah.Kilgore@carrollcountyschools.com

Here are examples of Andy Goldsworthy's work

Here is an example I made on a hike during the fall a couple years ago.

And here are examples of work you could make!
