

DiMare Fresh

The DiMare companies began with the three DiMare Brothers and a produce pushcart on the streets of Boston over 7 years ago. Today, they are one of the largest growers and packers of tomatoes in the United States.

In 1945, they planted fields of tomatoes and opened their first packing facility in Florida. They are pioneers in the tomato industry, from numerous innovations such as frost protection irrigation systems, plastic mulch and large drip irrigation to being leaders in such systems as disease model forecasting and analysis of weather prediction to conserve water.

The DiMare family stands for the values of hard work, integrity and excellence at the core of everything they do.

Descendants of the DiMare Brothers, Paul, Scott and Tony DiMare look over Florida fields.
