SMART and Special Teaching
& Cloze Passages

Dear Educator,

Thank you for downloading this product. I created this Decodable Story Pack so my students would have lots of meaningful practice with multi-syllable words and Trick words from Foundations Units 2-14 are included.

I have included cloze passages because I find that they really help my students engage with the text more effectively. I like to print these and laminate or use page protectors and wipe-off markers to save on paper and ink.

If you have questions please feel free to contact me through the Q and A tab at my store or at my blog. Please if you find a problem with my product or have a suggestion do contact me through the TPT Q and A tab. I will respond and fix anything quickly. Please don't give bad feedback without giving me a chance to rectify things.

Thanks

The Chipmunk

Nan wants to work inside. She wants to write a note to her friend Ben. She met Ben at camp. Nan brings bunches of nuts to snack on and then sits at her desk. She was thinking about what to write to Ben. Nan was thinking, "My life is so dull! I went to the dentist, but I can not write about that." As Nan got a pen from the desk, some nuts fell onto the rug. Just then, something brushed on her sock. She bent over to check it, and a soft thing whizzes by her and grabs a nut! Nan yells. Her mom comes dashing in. She says, "My word, what is going on?" Nan said, "A chipmunk is here inside! He is munching on nuts that fell." Just then, Nan's dog chases the chipmunk, and then a bedside lamp went flying. The chipmunk ran outside. At last, it was quiet. "What a complete mess!" said Nan. She flashes a smile. "But now I have something to write about to Ben."

The Picnic

It is splendid outside. Jan, Pam, and Stan are thinking about going on a picnic. They must go to their classes first, but then they can have a picnic beside the lake. After their classes, the friends get a basket and put many snacks inside their basket. Then they put in plates and some glasses for their snacks and drinks. When they get to the lake, they see many people have come with lunches to have picnics. There are so many people at the lake there are no benches left to sit on. But the friends are not upset. They will put a blanket down on the grass and set up all the stuff from their basket. Stan munches on all the snacks fast. He finishes first. He sees some people are in a jumping contest and wants to jump also. Being in the jumping contest was fun. Stan jumped 60 inches in one jump, but then he is a bit sick. Jumping is a lot of work. Stan will sit on one of the benches and take a rest!

Mike is Sick

Mike woke up with rashes on his back and on his legs. He felt hot and sick. Mike called his mom. His mom said, "Oh no, Mike you do not look good. I will get some pills to help you." She tucks Mike's blankets in. She rushes to the shop to get the pills. Mike is too hot, so he tosses all his blankets off him. Mike's Dad comes in to check on him and says, "Mike you should be under your blankets."

Mike blushes and says, "I tossed the blankets off when I was hot. But I got some chills." Dad helps Mike get back under his blankets. Then he brings two glasses to Mike. One glass with milk and one glass of lime fizz. Then Mike's mom gets back with the pills and a new game. When he finishes the drinks and the pills, he takes a long rest.

When he wakes up, the rashes are not there and he is not hot. He wishes he could go outside, but Mom says he must play inside with his new game.

The Wish

One day Rick went to a sale and got an old pink lamp. Rick thinks with an old lamp like this I may get some wishes if I rub it. Rick rushes home with his new lamp. He tosses it on his bed. He brushes off the dust. Then he rubs his lamp and wishes for a lot of cash. Nothing happens. Then he wishes to sing in a rock band. Nothing happens. Then he wishes to be tall to play basketball. Nothing happens. So Rick puts the lamp in the trash. Pam takes the lamp from the trash and polishes it to use by her bed. This is a good lamp for me. I will thank Rick for this good lamp. Pam went to see Rick. She says, "Thank you for the lamp." Rick says, "Why did it grant your wishes? Pam says, "Yes, I wished for a new lamp by my bed." "Oh," Rick smiled, "I am glad you got your wish!"

The Long Trip

Jill wakes up late, and she misses her bike ride with her friend Seth. First, she calls his home. His mom said, "He left word for you that he was going to Tom's home." So Jill rode to Tom's home. When she got there his Dad said, "He went to get Lin at her home. You may look for him there." When Jill got to Lin's home, her mom said, "They went on the path to the bandstand." Jill was getting hot on this long trip. She wishes she could stop looking for her friends. This was too much work. But when she got to the bandstand, all her friends were there. Jill rushes to see them. All the kids were hot, so they rode their bikes to get a snack and some water. Then they all sat on the benches and had a little picnic. Next, they played some baseball, and then they played some basketball too. At last, all of the friends went on a long bike ride. It was a fun day.

Hippos

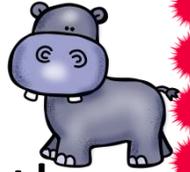

A hippo is a mammal that lives in the water and on land. Hippos live in lakes and by waterways in Africa. They spend much of their day in the water. A hippo has little legs and spends lots of time in the water. When you want to look for a hippo, you can spot their nose sticking out of the water. When sunset comes, the hippo's habit is to come out of the water. They graze on grasses by the banks of the water. Hippos are not fast. They can hide in the tall grasses in the water if something comes to get them. When hippos are small, they can get a ride on top of their mom's back. It is fun to see one as he splashes in the water! But it would be a mistake to get too close to a hippo, they are very big and strong. Maybe one day you may go and see a hippo swim in the water.

A Game Day

Mrs. Fox's class were finishing all of their work in their classes and it was time for some fun and games. Mrs. Fox will write down a plan for the kids. Mrs. Fox has lots of good athletes in her class. They want to have some games with lots of running. Zack rushes outside. He wants to have a game of baseball. The baseball game was fun. Zack and Jan hit home runs. The sun is hot, so the kids go inside and play a game of pinball on Stan's laptop. Then the kids go back outside to the benches with their lunches. They have a picnic. Then they invented some games with balls. They have a ball toss and Jack tosses the ball for a very long way. Then Jane tosses her ball past Jack's ball. It is a fun contest. Then they have a rope jumping contest. At the end of the contest, it is time to go home. What a splendid day they all had!

The Costume Bash

Jill, Mike, and Dave want to have a big costume bash. They will write and invite all their friends to come to the costume bash. It is their first time to do a costume bash. It is a lot of work. Dave puts up fake cobwebs in the branches outside Jill's home. Jill and Mike put out the benches for all their friends to sit on. They will have a costume contest. Dave dresses up like a goblin. Jill has a baseball outfit and Mike has a basketball outfit. The kids also make a campfire to make some hotdogs. All their friends come at sunset. Jill rushes outside and brings the drinks to her friends. She makes a mistake and trips with the glasses. But the glasses are plastic, so it is fine. Stan wins the costume contest. He is a vampire. All the kids have a good time.

Mike is Sick

Mike woke up with rashes on his back and on his legs. He felt hot and sick. Mike called his mom. His mom said, "Oh no, Mike you do not look good. I will get some pills to help you." She tucks Mike's blankets in. She rushes to the shop to get the pills. Mike is too hot, so he tosses all his blankets off him. Mike's Dad comes in to check on him and says, "Mike you should be under your blankets."

Mike blushes and says, "I tossed the blankets off when I was hot. But I got some chills." Dad helps Mike get back under his blankets. Then he brings two glasses to Mike. One glass with milk and one glass of lime fizz. Then Mike's mom gets back with the pills and a new game. When he finishes the drinks and the pills, he takes a long rest.

When he wakes up, the rashes are not there and he is not hot. He wishes he could go outside, but Mom says he must play inside with his new game.

The Wish

One day, Rick went to a sale and got an old pink lamp. Rick thinks with an old lamp like this I may get some wishes if I rub it. Rick rushes home with his new lamp. He tosses it on his bed. He brushes off the dust. Then he rubs his lamp and wishes for a lot of cash. Nothing happens. Then he wishes to sing in a rock band. Nothing happens. Then he wishes to be tall to play basketball. Nothing happens. So Rick puts the lamp in the trash. Pam takes the lamp from the trash and polishes it to use by her bed. This is a good lamp for me. I will thank Rick for this good lamp. Pam went to see Rick. She says, "Thank you for the lamp." Rick says, "Why did it grant your wishes? Pam says, "Yes, I wished for a new lamp by my bed." "Oh," Rick smiled, "I am glad you got your wish!"

The Long Trip

Jill wakes up late, and she misses her bike ride with her friend Seth. First, she calls his home. His mom said, "He left word for you that he was going to Tom's home." So Jill rode to Tom's home. When she got there his Dad said, "He went to get Lin at her home. You may look for him there." When Jill got to Lin's home, her mom said, "They went on the path to the bandstand." Jill was getting hot on this long trip. She wishes she could stop looking for her friends. This was too much work. But when she got to the bandstand, all her friends were there. Jill rushes to see them. All the kids were hot, so they rode their bikes to get a snack and some water. Then they all sat on the benches and had a little picnic. Next, they played some baseball, and then they played some basketball too. At last, all of the friends went on a long bike ride. It was a fun day.

The Sunset Picnic

The Smith's get to the lake at about sunset. Jim gets off his new bike and tosses his helmet on the grass. "This is a good way to end our day," said Jim. He flashes a big smile at Mom and Dad. Mom puts a blanket on the grass. "I like being here. We should have a sunset picnic by the water," says Mom. "I packed muffins and some blended drinks in the bike basket." After the picnic, Jim says, "Let's take a run down that path and look and see what is there." While Mom packs up the bike basket, Jim and Dad run down the path. Jim calls out. "Dad look down by the big tree branches. I see some little foxes crossing the path."

"I think they may be trying to get to the water," said Dad. They call to Mom and she comes to see the little foxes too. It is a good end to the fun day.

Hippos

A hippo is a mammal that lives in the water and on land. Hippos live in lakes and by waterways in Africa. They spend much of their day in the water. A hippo has little legs and spends lots of time in the water. When you want to look for a hippo, you can spot their nose sticking out of the water. When sunset comes, the hippo's habit is to come out of the water. They graze on grasses by the banks of the water. Hippos are not fast. They can hide in the tall grasses in the water if something comes to get them. When hippos are small, they can get a ride on top of their mom's back. It is fun to see one as he splashes in the water! But it would be a mistake to get too close to a hippo, they are very big and strong. Maybe one day you may go and see a hippo swim in the water.
