Sixth Grade News

Since returning from Winter Break, students have been busy reading novels based on the Civil Rights Movement in America. They have read compelling novels about the struggles and heroism of everyday citizens in a troubled time. 6th graders have persevered through Unit 3 Numeric and Algebraic Expressions, and they are revving up for their next unit on Equations.

Seventh Grade News

It is imperative that students complete all work if they are quarantined, so they won't have so much work to do when they return to school. Work has been put on Google Classroom and packets are available in the front lobby. Students have an upcoming unit test in math over expressions and equations. In science, students just finished making models of plant cells. They will have an upcoming test over labeling cells and organelles, and the functions of each of these. They will be learning about tissues, organs, and systems in the upcoming week. In ELA, students are working on Coach Book material to get prepared for the GMAT. They just finished Figurative Language.

Eighth Grade News

Eighth graders are resilient, daring, and adventurous! As we continue to sail into uncharted waters, we have adapted to many different forms of teaching and learning. In school buildings, almost every task has implications for instruction - from social-distancing, wearing masks, and cleaning times to adapting instruction for in-person, quarantined, or virtual students. Teachers have used creative and innovative measures to modify presentations and assessment of students.

Even so, we are pressing forward. We are doing our best to overcome losses of instruction time and fully prepare students for success on GMAS. We are taking advantage of Beacon, Map, iLearn, and Star assessments to have an accurate measure of growth and productive paths to focus learning strategies. We strive to put together learning packets and post assignments on Google Classroom for quarantined students. We ask parents to stay abreast of your child's progress through progress reports, report cards, Google Classroom, and online Parent Portal. Together, we can achieve victory through these rough seas of uncertainty.
