Eagle Springs Elementary African American Read-In Feb. 25

HOUSTON COUNTY, GA – Eagle Springs Elementary School will participate in the 31st National African American Read-In Chain on Feb. 25, 2020, at 2:15 p.m. The emphasis is on sharing books authored by African American writers.

Volunteer readers include retired teachers and representatives from the Board of Education, Robins Air Force Base and Central Georgia Technical College. They will meet in the media center before reading to the children. The volunteers will bring a favorite book or choose one to read from the media center.

The International Reading Association endorses the 31st National African American Read-In Chain. This project began in 1990, and this is the 10th year that Eagle Springs Elementary has participated.

African American Read-In This will be Eagle Springs Elementary's 11th year participating in this event. The school is located at 3591 Highway 41 North in Byron, and Dr. Andrea McGee serves as principal. For more information, contact Betty Barnes, 2nd grade teacher, at betty.barnes@hcbe.net.
