2:00	Theme Intro: Amy St. John, while exiled on the small island of Patmos, was granted a future vision of the Christian Church, ultimately culminating in the Return of Jesus Christ at the end of all time and the ushering in of Christ's Eternal Kingdom, the Church Triumphant. This morning, we begin a sermon series on the seven churches receiving letters in the book of Revelation. In a sense, these churches heard, "You've got mail" when Jesus is speaking to them. The email we will be looking at was originally sent to the congregation in Ephesus, a church that was given good and bad news; a church that had lost it's "first love," and what they could and should do about it. This message to the Ephesian Christians has a lasting and continuing application for all the churches of today.	Pan to Amy		One Voice	One Voice

If not, I will come to you and remove your lampstand from its place, unless you repent. 6 Yet this you have: you hate the works of the Nicolaitans, which I also hate. Congregation: 7 He who has an ear, let him hear what the Spirit says to the churches. To the one who conquers I will grant to eat of the tree of life, which is in the paradise of God.'
